1. [adjective] Teenagers think that Chinese festivals are dull and superstitious.

2. [adjective] There are many different cultures in Hong Kong, like American, English / British and Japanese etc.

3. [agreement] Different countries have their own culture. Traditional festivals are a part of culture and are important for Hong Kong children and teenagers. They should continue to take part in them.

4. [agreement] Hong Kong is a special place because it has Western and Chinese festivals.

5. [article] Hong Kong is an international city. Family is an important unit of the Hong Kong society. Ching Ming Festival is an event to let people know the importance of respecting their ancestors.

6. [do] Nowadays, Hong Kong children and teenagers do not believe in the traditional ways of life.

7. [gerund] If children and teenagers keep on taking part in them, the Chinese culture will survive.

8. [gerund] Moreover, taking part in traditional Chinese festivals can help develop our national identity.

9. [infinitive] Chinese people want everything to be perfect.

10. [infinitive] This is a time for people showing to show their own customs and culture.

11. [preposition] Dragon Boat Festival is usually in mid-June. On that day, people eat rice dumplings.

12. [preposition] Teenagers should pay more attention to Chinese festivals.

13. [spelling] Beside Chinese New Year, there are many other festivals which also join family members together.

15. [subject] Moon cake is a special Chinese food which we can eat in Mid-Autumn Festival only.

16. [subject] Nowadays, many teenagers do not know what they should do in Yue Lan Festival.

17. [tense] Our ancestors did have done a lot of things essential for us.

18. [tense] The influence of Chinese culture is decreasing. The patriotism of our teenagers to China is becoming weaker and weaker. The Hungry Ghosts Festival represents our care for the dead. It needs to be continued. Older people need to take this festival seriously.
19. [verb] Dragon Boat Festival remembers a patriotic poet who committed suicide in order to make the emperor change his mind.

20. [verb] In Chinese New Year, the happy atmosphere is spreads covers all around the country.